

I pledge a commitment to my faith, my family's well-being and the positive survival of the company I own or represent. Success is not an option for me, but something I insist upon achieving.

Success is not something others can give me, nor is it something the government or economy can provide. This achievement is not determined by luck, chance, race, creed, color or religion, but is dependent upon hard work, creativity, follow-through, dedication, persistence and belief.

I am driven, pushing forward while others rest, working while others enjoy leisure, seeking that which is positive, powerful, and productive, always moving in the direction of what I desire most.

I do what others refuse, so that I am able to control my destiny and support those I love and care for.

I am never satisfied with less and will not settle for complacency or mediocre results as a role model in leading others to prosperity, wealth creation and abundance.

I continuously strive to meet personal milestones and will not stop prior to achieving my goals, and I will do everything moral and ethical in claiming my right to be successful.

Success is my duty, honor, responsibility and primary obligation at all times. I have set aside the notion of good luck or bad luck, realizing that it has always been me who decides, knowing the fruit of all true merit in life starts with my effort alone and no one else but me.

It's Easy For Me, To Change.

This is my pledge-
